could you check if you have this file on server "administrator/index3.php" and tell me what version of Joomla you have?

Regards,Ovidiu

yes i actually have that file. i can paste the contents as well.

also, it was originally 1.0.5 version, then we recently upgraded it to 1.0.9 version because we thought it was the version problem(currently, we have another site that uses joomla! and ANJEL works perfectly fine there as well).

Not sure if the component has this feature, but most probably you should check the Configuration area for a related setting!

This might require some custom programming! Btw, have you tried with the Global Config setting, maybe the component uses the registration component for inserting users!

hmmm, all doesn't seem to have. shldn't it be put as a default item for us instead of having it to configure ourselves? afterall, when someone registers for the newsletter, the admin wld save lots of trouble having to check the account everyday when they can just get it thru their email.

sorry if i sounded a bit too rude, but hmm, that's MHO. if i dun solve that problem, i can't go hm in 2 hrs *headdesk* well not sure if the feature is really needed, why would you want to get notified each time a user register for the newsletter? image a site with 1,000 users and getting 50 or more signups per day for newsletter, that will definately make your email full!

Hope it helps! Ovidiu

quite true... i know what u mean. but our site is quite small, so maybe tt's why the boss likes it such. because 1 notified email abt a new user a day means 'site is getting customers'.

i'm still looking 4 where might be the code to modfiy though.

edit: if anyone knows where i can modify my code, please do tell me!!!
